Mission: Foster an appreciation for our city's cultural history and ensure the preservation of our historic architectural resources and environments.

Overview: State ADU Requirements and State Laws 9 and 10

By Ann Gread and Ernie Kebeley

Your Fullerton Heritage Board is concerned about several State laws that affect the fabric of our historic resources and the City in general. Already in play is State Additional Dwelling Unit (ADU) requirements. During 2021 Senate Bills 9 (SB9) and 10 (SB10) were signed and became state law on January 1, 2022. These new laws effect zoning of single-family residences as well as ease the rules for converting non-residential zoning to residential zoning. The goals of these laws are to provide additional housing stock in California. In theory, if it's easy to build more housing then there will be more supply which in turn will lower housing pricing. These laws do not take into consideration the specific regional development history or the differences in demographic and economic trends between urban, suburban, and rural regions of the State.

Current ADU law allows for property owners to add ADUs to their properties, whether owner occupied or not. The law does not require the owner to provide parking if within a half mile of public transit.

It does allow cities to say "no" to ADU construction in designated areas due to impacts on infrastructure or public safety. However, designating these areas would require extensive, costly studies to substantiate the impacts. The good news regarding historic resources is if the property is within a Preservation Zone then new design and construction has to meet the specific guidelines for Residential Preservation Zones while supporting the look and feel of the main house and the neighborhood.

SB9 allows for the subdivision of properties zoned R1 (single family residence) into two lots. This would allow for each lot to have a primary residence, an ADU and a Junior ADU (small ADU within the primary residence with its own entrance). The property owner must sign a letter of intention to live on the original property for 3 years once the subdivision is approved. SB9 does protect recognized Historic Districts of which Fullerton's 11 Preservation Zones do comply. However, these 11 Zones don't represent all of Fullerton's historic neighborhoods leaving many homes and historic neighborhoods at risk to development with little protections with regards to density, exterior designs and setbacks.

SB10 is voluntary and must be adopted by city councils. This law makes it easier to convert zoning of industrial/commercial properties that are in easily accessible transit areas and/or are urban infill areas to residential zones that provide up to 10 housing units per parcel. At this point the Fullerton City Council has not adopted this measure. There are no protections for historic properties in this law. Hopefully, National Register, Significant and Local Landmark properties are protected by their designations.

Fullerton Heritage will continue to advocate for our historic resources and neighborhoods as the City implements these new laws. Although we are not a political organization, we are committed to preserving our historic architectural resources and environments. We strongly encourage you to become informed about what this means to our community.

Do You Live in a Historic Neighborhood?

By Ernie Kebeley

Historic Districts and Preservation Zones are similar, but not synonymous. Fullerton's Design Guidelines for Residential Preservation Zones was adopted by the City on March 5, 1996. Fullerton Heritage in partnership with the City drafted the Municipal Code changes. As a result of dedicated neighbors hard work, along with Fullerton Heritage's mentorship, there are currently 10 Preservation Zones in the City. This is beneficial because established Preservation Zones have some protections against the new State housing laws. These protections address mass, scale, setback and look and feel. There are 6 additional neighborhoods that are considered Historic Districts but are not protected by the same guidelines as Preservation Zones.

If you think your neighborhood could become a Preservation Zone, please contact Fullerton Heritage at 714-750-3055 info@fullertonheritage.org. We'll help you figure it out!

Interested in helping to regain local Zoning control? Our Neighborhood Voices at ourneighborhoodvoices.com and our Heritage Board voted to endorse this organization.

Happy Birthday Villa del Sol The California Hotel Turns 100

by Debora Richey

From the start, the California Hotel, now Villa del Sol, was one of the biggest news stories in Fullerton, and all north Orange County. Dedicated on January 15, 1923, the three-story building, located at the northwest corner of Wilshire Avenue and Harbor Boulevard (then Spadra Road), had 22 apartments, 55 guest rooms, and ten retail spaces on the ground level to provide extra income, along with two kitchens, a dining room, and a large, elaborately decorated lobby. The grand hotel was one of only a few buildings constructed with funds raised by was quickly formed in 1921, and Chapman personally pledged $25,000 toward the fund drive. Roy E. Durbin, a hotel man from Long Beach, agreed to put up another $5,000 in return for the right to manage the hotel once it was built. The CHC board of directors included some of Fullerton's wealthiest pioneers, such as John Bastanchury, and two former mayors: Edward K. Benchley and Richard S. Gregory. When CHC stock went on sale on September 27, 1921, $55,000 worth sold to 25 men and women in 25 minutes. Chapman quickly hired notable architect M. Eugene Durfee, who had just been commissioned to design a new Anaheim City Hall, to prepare plans for the first-class hotel. Fullerton architect Frank K. Benchley was hired as associate architect, but Durfee was decidedly the more experienced of the two men, having

In July 1919, the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce and other organizations had adopted a resolution to make the Spanish style the preferred architectural style in the city.

Fullerton PD Neon Sign Glows Again

It Glows Again!

We're so excited the FPD Neon Sign has been fully restored and is shining again for all to see.

This iconic neon sign is part of the National Register listing for the Fullerton Police Department (formerly City Hall) and is including in Local Landmark #9. It is now back in excellent working order.

A big THANK YOU to all the people that made this happen including the FPD #FullertonProud, our Fullerton Heritage members, the online community of donations, Bushala Brothers, Inc., and especially #Fullertonrotarymain for their extremely generous contribution to this project.

Take a look at this beautiful landmark when you're out and about downtown.

Local History Room Information

The Past Is Present...In the Local History Room

The Local History Room opened its doors in 1973 thanks to a $3500 donation from Lulu Launer as a tribute to her late husband Albert's many years of community service. The first order of business was to organize the many boxes of historical documents that had been stored in a sliver of space under the stairs at the WPA library. Tucked in the corner of the new library at 353 W. Commonwealth, the local history collection soon outgrew its cramped quarters and commandeered additional library real estate on the third floor. Greater visibility led to more donations and as part of the 2011 library renovation, the collection moved into its new state-of-the-art, climate-controlled facility that doubled the square footage of the old room, thanks this time, to a donation from Jim Blake.

The collection has changed a lot since 1973, moving from the self-serve, browsing model to more of a rare materials, special collection archive. Advanced digital technology has allowed the library to make the collection available to researchers near and far, while protecting the original documents for

Dear Mayor Jung and Councilmembers:

Fullerton Heritage wholeheartedly supports the recommendations of the Library Ad Hoc Committee and their findings on the Hunt Library.

We agree with the City providing full-service library operations and community cultural arts programming as a two-year bridge until the City has a distinct strategy and plan to move forward with this historic building.

We thank the Library Ad Hoc Committee members for their hard work and the Council for approving this excellent two-year plan.

Pathways of Hope

PATHWAYS OF
HOPE

The Fullerton POLICE sign is a 1960's vintage neon sign located at the Police Station, 237 West Commonwealth Avenue. It was built by the NU-ART Neon Sign Company, formerly located at 114 West Amerige Avenue in Fullerton. It is the second oldest neon sign in Fullerton and is listed on the National Register of Historic Places as part of the 1942 old City Hall listing. It is also a Fullerton Local Landmark.

The sign is no longer in working condition because of vandalism to the neon tubing and other components. Because of its significance in Fullerton's history, Fullerton Heritage is sponsoring an effort to have the sign restored and protected from future harm.

The estimated cost of the restoration is $8000. Some volunteer work may be needed to provide a safe area around the sign for new landscaping. More information about the sign and the NU-ART Sign Company can be found at Fullertonheritage.org.

Fullerton Heritage will be accepting donations for the restoration, please mail to: PO Box 3356, Fullerton, CA 92834-3051. All donations will be acknowledged as a charitable donation for your records.

RE: Support for City of Fullerton Community Project Funding Request

Dear Senator Feinstein, Senator Padilla, Congresswoman Steel and Congressman Correra:

Noelle Rossi
Treasurer

On behalf of the Fullerton Heritage board and its members, I'm writing in support of the City of Fullerton's application for Community Project Funding for remediation, restoration, and renovation of the City of Fullerton Police Station, formerly our City Hall.

Maureen Burton

John Estrada

Completed in 1940 by the United States Works Progress Administration, this iconic structure is Local Landmark #9 (out of 108) and is also listed on the National Register of Historic Places because of its historic significance, architecture, architectural details (including a Helen Lundeberg mural) and importance to Fullerton's history.

Terry Galvin

Jennifer Harris

The building needs many repairs and updates. This includes the exterior sunken courtyard patio and its supporting decorative tiles and iron work. It also needs modernization of the jail and removal of toxic materials. Fullerton Heritage looks forward to working with City Staff on the historic components of this exciting project.

Debora Richey

Joan Wolff

For the above reasons, we respectfully ask for your kind consideration of Fullerton's Community Project Funding application.

Mission: Foster an appreciation of our city's cultural history and ensure the preservation of our historic architectural resources and environments.

Architecture

Home / Architecture and Construction / Architecture

Build Your Future in Architecture

People need places to live, work, play, learn, shop, and eat. Architects are responsible for designing these places. They work on public or private projects and design both indoor and outdoor spaces. Architects can be commissioned to design anything from a single room to an entire complex of buildings.

The Architecture Associate in Science Degree courses are designed to develop skills necessary to help facilitate transfer to a university for a Bachelor of Architecture Degree (B.Arch.). Placement is based on a portfolio review. The curriculum is also designed to prepare students for employment in the architectural profession. The program requires a minimum of 32-34 units.

Architectural CAD Technology

The Architectural CAD Technology Certificate program is designed to prepare students for employment in the architectural field as a CAD drafter. The CAD drafter prepares construction documents for the contractor. Architects and architectural drafters use computer-aided design (CAD) software to create drawings and blueprints for buildings. Architectural drafters often specialize in designing a specific type of structure. Proficiency in the use of computers and CAD software is key to working in the field.

Architecture Mini CAD

The Architecture Mini CAD Certificate prepares students to be functional within two and three-dimensional CAD systems used in the architecture/engineering/construction industry. The student will generate drawings from existing designs, plot drawings, create electronic files and develop file management skills. A minimum grade of C is required in each course taken.
