Glaze It

Fullerton Heritage has been working with the Fullerton Museum Center on the stained-glass window facing Pomona Avenue. It will be re-glazed as a way to restore and protect the window.

Add on?

The owner of a tri-plex in the Brookdale Heights preservation zone, a potential significant property, inquired whether Fullerton Heritage would support construction of a new unit on the property. Fullerton Heritage is reviewing this.

Review It

The Fullerton City Council has decided to eliminate the Design Review Board by January 2019. In its place the City will now use a Town Architect to review and make recommendations on proposed new construction within designated residential preservation zones.

Significant Property Inventory

Fullerton Heritage board members met with City Staff in the Planning and Community Developments to discuss the proposed revision of the Fullerton Through the Years document, the City's inventory of significant properties that was developed by Fullerton Heritage. How the city would review and approve the document and, secondly, the need to amend Chapter 15.48 of the City's code (Landmarks and Landmark and Districts, et.al) was discussed. It was a very productive meeting. The City indicated these issues would be addressed later in the year.

Time to Move

Per a proposed plan by a local builder, two of the four houses that the North Orange County Community College District (NOCCD) owns along E. Chapman Avenue will be saved and moved to the two lots the NOCCD owns on E. Wilshire and Amerige Avenues. In order for approval of the proposed plan by the NOCCC District Board, the District needs to be granted a waiver of stated conditions from the state of California. The District has sent a letter asking for the waiver from the State, and it is hoping to receive approval of the waiver before the first of June 2018.
